GLOSSARY OF HOUSING TERMS

ADULT HOMES - Also referred to as Residential Care or Adult Care Facilities.

Adult Homes provide long-term residential care, room and board, housekeeping, personal care (which includes assistance with bathing and dressing), and supervision to a minimum of five dependent adults. Congregate meals are provided three times daily, and a full range of planned activities and outings are usually offered. Adult Homes do not generally provide on-site nursing or medical care, but a number of facilities contract with physicians and health care providers who visit residents when necessary. Many adult homes also provide care to younger, mentally ill or disabled adults. Rooms may be private or shared and adult homes in NYC range in size from 30 to 400 beds. It is recommended that one inquires about the percentage of residents who are older adults residing in the facility.

To be eligible for an adult home, an individual must be either ambulatory or able to transfer from a bed to a chair. They must be alert and continent.

Adult Homes are regulated by the New York City Department of Social Services and operators may be proprietary, public or not-for-profit agencies. Rates in private facilities vary.

Approximately half of the homes in New York City accept Social Security (SSA), Social Security Disability (SSD) or Supplemental Security Income (SSI) as full payment.

For additional general information contact: NYC Department for the Aging at 311. For placement information (non private pay) contact: NYC Human Resources Administration, Division of Voluntary and Proprietary Homes for Adults, at (212) 971-2930.

ASSISTED LIVING - Can include both subsidized as well as market rate housing options in which health, nursing and supportive services as available to residents. Services to provide assistance for activities of daily living are intended to enable the frail or disabled older adult to live independently in this housing. In market rate assisted living sites monthly rates can range from a low $2000 to over $5000 per month.

COMMUNITY RESIDENCE FOR MENTALLY ILL AGED - Congregate care facility for individuals diagnosed with a severe or persistent mental illness. The Community Residence provides residential services which support and assist the individual with their goal of integration into the community utilizing a rehabilitative focus.

NEW YORK STATE HOUSING TRUST FUND HOUSING - One of several New York State programs that combined with other public and private funds, helps to finance the construction or rehabilitation of affordable and low-income housing, including three senior housing sites on Staten Island.

SECTION 202 HOUSING FOR ADULTS - This federal program, Supportive Housing for the Elderly, provides new housing, which includes supportive services and rental assistance, for low-income elderly, including the frail and disabled. Prior to 1991, the program did not include funding for services, thus Section 202 sites may vary in the services that are provided. Most sites have a number of accessible units for disabled elderly. Residents pay no more than 30% of their income for rent, with federal subsidy covering the balance of the unit's fair market price.

SECTION 8 HOUSING - This program, no longer active, refers to projects built using funds provided through Section 8 of the U.S. Housing Act and includes both senior specific and general population housing. Residents pay no more than 30% of their income for rent, with federal subsidy covering the balance of the unit's fair market price.

SHARED HOUSING AND SHARED LIVING RESIDENCE - Residents, who are over age 60, share housing and are selected for their compatibility and suitability to a shared living environment. Residents must be able to initiate and carry out their own personal care and activities. Participation in household functions is necessary to maintain a homelike atmosphere.

A Shared Living Residence Enriched Housing site includes a private unfurnished bedroom for each resident, furnished common living areas, all meals, laundry and household supplies, staffed by a Residence Manager and offering a family-like atmosphere.

MARKET RATE SENIOR HOUSING - Non subsidized housing, for purchase or rental, which is based upon the prevailing market rate for housing in the given community.

NYC HOUSING AUTHORITY (NYCHA) PUBLIC HOUSING - Housing built and managed by the New York City Housing Authority (NYCHA) for low and moderate income residents of New York City. Some NYCHA Housing has been built for and is occupied primarily by the elderly. It provides independent community living with referral for services as needed. Senior Centers are located at all NYCHA housing sites on Staten Island.
